

If you are seeking a new dining experience in a neighborhood that reflects the multicultural history of Milwaukee, Lincoln Village is what you are looking for.

With a deeply rooted Polish past, the neighborhood is now home to a growing Latino population. The diverse history of Lincoln Village is best represented by the area's dining. Come to Lincoln Village and you will find a variety of authentic Mexican, Eastern European, and South American dishes prepared as authentic as any dish served in the home country.

Your choices include classic Mexican dishes and seafood served at a variety of restaurants, and Serbian cuisine artfully prepared on Lincoln Avenue for over 80 years. The settings are as varied as the food, ranging from full service restaurants to banquet halls to pizza by the slice.

Many of the restaurants have been perfecting their menu on Lincoln Village for years, while new arrivals are always appearing. Located just south of Downtown Milwaukee, the neighborhood is also home to nationally-recognized historic places such as St. Josaphat's Basilica, Kosciuszko Park, and Forest Home Cemetery. Nearly all buildings along Lincoln Avenue represent Milwaukee's deep architectural heritage, providing a picturesque neighborhood to accommodate your dining experience.
